Período: 2º Semestre - 2019
Carga Horária: 60 horas (4 créditos)

A violência é um dos mais graves problemas que afligem as sociedades modernas. Cientistas Econômicos e Sociais de diferentes áreas procuram entender as causas, e as motivações, desse fenômeno, bem como possíveis alternativas de políticas públicas que possam minimizar seus efeitos. Entendendo violência no sentido amplo, podemos interpretar acidentes de trânsito, homicídios, suicídios, terrorismo, brutalidade policial, violência doméstica e no trabalho, como subdivisões do tema geral violência.

OBJETIVO: O principal objetivo do curso é tentar compreender melhor os determinantes dos diferentes tipos de crime e da violência. Cabe ressaltar que uma melhor compreensão da criminalidade é uma questão vital para a formulação de políticas públicas que tentem amenizar esse problema. É evidente que um objetivo de tal magnitude impõe diversas dificuldades a essa empreitada.

AVALIAÇÃO: Os alunos serão convidados a apresentar seminários ao longo do curso. Tais seminários serão responsáveis por 30% da avaliação final. Os 70% restantes serão cobrados na forma de um artigo ao final do curso.

CONHECIMENTOS PREVIOS NECESSARIOS: Para um desempenho satisfatório na disciplina, é desejável que os alunos já tenham feito de Teoria Economia e Introdução à Econometria ao nível de Pós-graduação. Entretanto, essa não é uma condição sine qua non.

CARGA DE LEITURA: Espera-se que o aluno dedique pelo menos 12 horas de leitura por semana a essa disciplina. Recomenda-se fortemente que os alunos venham para a aula já tendo lido a bibliografia indicada para a semana.
